

RAISING KIDS WHO AREN'T SCARED OF MATHS: THE 5 MOST VALUABLE THINGS YOU CAN TEACH YOUR STUDENTS!

This webinar is taking place within the cadre of CMS' Closing the Gap Initiative for Black and Indigenous Students. The free online and interactive webinar is designed to discuss ways to teach math in a way that empowers and inspires students. This workshop emphasizes the idea that through teaching math, teachers can help students see themselves as creative, confident, and capable of anything. Ready to transform the way you approach teaching math? Let's do this!

When: Tuesday, Oct. 13, 2020, 7:30 EDT

Registration: Register here and we will send you the Zoom information closer to the date of the event.

Vanessa is the founder and director of The Math Guru, a super-cool boutique math & science tutoring studio in Toronto. She is also the author of Math Hacks, a new book that totally makes math fun, stress-free and relatable for young kids and parents, and the host of Math Therapy, a podcast that works through guests' math trauma. She appears regularly on national television and news outlets as an expert in math education, and speaks globally at conferences about re-inventing media representations of women in STEM. Her #goals are to be Lady-Gaga-famous and to totally change math culture so that STEM is finally as cool and accessible as basically every single Taylor Swift song ever.
